Hackers Hour

Hackers Hour Capture the Flag (CTF) is a special kind of 12 hours, Beginner Level, Jeopardy style, information security competitions which touch on many aspects of information security like cryptography, steganography, binary analysis, reverse engineering, web application security and others. Good teams generally have strong skills and experience in all these issues. For example Web Forensic, Crypto Binary or something else. Team can gain some points for every solved task. More points for more complicated tasks usually. The next task in chain can be opened only after same team solve previous task. Then the game time is over sum of points shows you a CTF winner

Who We Are?

ComExpo Cyber Security Foundation is a non-profit organization that believes the Web should be safe, open and equally accessible to everyone. Our motto is to enable people from all age groups and professionals to be a part of making awesome things on the web. We teach all to develop their web literacy skills by spreading awareness and teaching the skills required to develop the web. To do so, we go to school, colleges, offices and any public spaces to teach them about the web.
